TRAIN TO START ON SUNDAY AS PLANNED

Special to Koshkonong and Points North Will Start on Sunday Next.

Instead of running the new Fond du Lac train on a regular schedule, as was intended before the fact became known that it was necessary to give the state road commission forty days' notice before installing it, the railroad company has gotten around the difficulty by deciding to run the train as an extra or on a special schedule. The train was installed as the result of a petition of Janesville residents who desired better service at Lake Koshkonong and it was originally intended to start running it next Sunday. The fact then became known that, according to the rules of the state commission, it was necessary to give forty days' notice before a new train could be put on, and it was stated that the train would not be run until June 13. This morning, however, the local office received word that the train would be put on Sunday, not as a regular train but as a special.

CHANGES CONTEMPLATED BY THE NORTH-WESTERN

In addition to the changes which have already been mentioned before, it is expected that the time and routes of other trains will also be changed in the new time table which is to appear on May 23. It is thought that a new train, 517, will be sent up from Chicago by way of Clinton, arriving here about noon, and that 521 will be sent via Deloit. It is also probable that, in view of these alterations, 501 will be the last train from Chicago.

GIVEN, FRESH COAT OF THE NEW PAINT

Cleanliness is next to Godliness, according to the old saying, and if this is true, then it must be that a plan is on foot to make the call-boy's office an anteroom to heaven. Last night the walls were treated to a fresh coat of pearl-gray paint while the floor was surprised with a deluge of hot soapy water. The art collection should make a brave showing against the new wall paint and it is understood that anyone with a predilection for chewing tobacco and an aversion for using the cuspidor will be compelled to stand outside the gate.

MRS. GIBSON DIED THIS AFTERNOON

Mrs. Lucinda Kinney Gibson Passed Away Shortly After Two O'clock Today.

Mrs. Lucinda Kinney Gibson passed away this afternoon shortly after two o'clock. She was born in Muskegon county, Ohio, May 2, 1834 and was married at Logan, Ohio, to George Gibson, October 12, 1854. They came to Illinois at an early day and at the death of her husband in 1889 she came to Janesville to be near her children, several of whom were located here.

She leaves to mourn her loss the following children: Alta, wife of W. E. Clinton; Ida and Edith, who live at home; Charles H., of this city; and Frank W., of Chicago.

The funeral service will be private and will be held at the home at ten o'clock a. m. tomorrow morning. The remains will be taken to Macon, Ill., for interment.

James McKewan.

At nine o'clock this morning from St. Patrick's church the last and tributes of respect were paid to the memory of James McKewan, Dean E. B. Reilly conducted the services which were attended by many friends of the deceased in the town of Harpington. The floral offerings were numerous and very handsome. The remains were laid at rest in Mount Olivet cemetery.

If You Have a Pleasant Face,

It is generally better to deal by speech than by letter, and by the medium of a third than by a man's self.

To deal in person is good when a man's face breathes regard, as commonly with inferiors, or in tender cases where a man's eye upon the countenance of him with whom he speaketh may give him a direction how far to go, and generally where a man will reserve to himself liberty either to disavow or to expound—Francis Bacon.

Obligation Rests on All.

It is obligatory upon decent people to be obliging, an obligation to their decency bound up in the necessities of the case. Noblesse oblige is one of the best of mottoes and sentiments, implying that a man's very status as a man compels him to be obliging.

Another Dismal Reminiscence.

PHILLIES BACK STOP GIVES EXCELLENT ADVICE.
Charles Doolin catcher for the Phillies.

The latest baseball man-to-man, to the honors of writing is Charles Doolin and he is making good. He knows the game of baseball as do few catchers and what is more he can write about it in an interesting way. It used to be enough for the catcher to stand back of the plate, handle the pitcher's curves, throw to bases, and get his share of the hits, says the Philadelphia catcher. But the modern, scientific game has added to the duties of the man behind the bat. Now he is the general. He is the only man who has the entire play before him at all times. Every one of his teammates is facing him. He must give the signals. The tactics of the game are up to him.

It used to be that above all things he needed courage. Now mental alertness has been added. Not that the need for nerve has passed. It takes a lot of indifference to pain and peril to stand back there and meet the cannonading.

Not always can the ball be made to land on the glove. Once in a while there is a wild pitch or the signals get crossed.

Then the catcher has to stick out his bare hand to save the enemy from getting one or two extra bases. The man who won't do this, no matter how much it hurts, has no business in baseball. Plugging would be about his speed.

Whenever a catcher shows any signs of fear the other team is sure to get him. Therefore, I advise amateurs that unless they have all kinds of pluck and indifference to danger they try something else besides catching.

to cover the bag on the steal, then it is a single, which often lets the man on first get around to third and paves the way for runs.

If a team can get away with this, then it is sure to win games. But the "hit and run" can be broken up by a catcher who knows his business.

Many persons have wondered why the Detroit team, that was so strong in the American league, fell down so completely in the world's series when opposed to Chicago. To me the answer was always easy.

It was too much for them. Crawford, Cobb, Rossman and Schaefer worked their "hit and run" in great shape in their own league, but the best catcher in the business flagged them. That's all there was to it.

Every batter has a different "hit-and-run" sign. If you study them, you can often detect them. He may hold the bat some peculiar way, put his hand to cap, stop away from the plate, hitch up his trousers, any one of a dozen things.

If you think it is going to be "hit-and-run," make your pitcher waste the ball; then if the runner goes down and the batter is unable to reach the ball, you have a fine chance to get the man stealing.

But don't let too many balls be hole where he is likely to give a base whited - or you got the pitcher in a hole where he is likely to give a base on balls.

Many a base runner will pretend he is going down, only to persuade a nervous pitcher into wasting so many balls that when the time comes he can't get the ball over the plate.

You must know your pitcher and decide how far you can take chances. When you finally must pitch to the batter, put the ball where he can't hit it through the hole left vacant by the man covering to take the throw, and have some one waiting where the ball is likely to go.

Work on this play all the time, for if you can learn to break up "hit and run" you have solved one of the catcher's greatest tasks.

Get the ball away quickly when you throw to break up a steal, and don't let base runners take too much of a lead. It is heart-breaking to a pitcher to see men getting a base or make the next station on an infield out.

Keep them close to the bag at all times. You can make them respect your arm by frequent snap throws, and once you get one or two of them napping fewer liberties will be taken.

I used to think that the pitcher didn't get full credit for all the demands that were made on him behind the bat, but that can't be said now.

The importance of the catcher is recognized by managers and fans alike. There are not enough of them to meet the demand, with the result that the good catcher stays in the ranks longer, perhaps, than his fellows in any other position.

Even after he has slowed up on the bases he is still in demand, and when his playing days have stopped he can catch on to coach, as witness men like Farrell, Robinson and McGuire.

Who are the only wise people on earth? Why, those who agree with us, of course.—New York Press.

Swinging in Middle Ages.

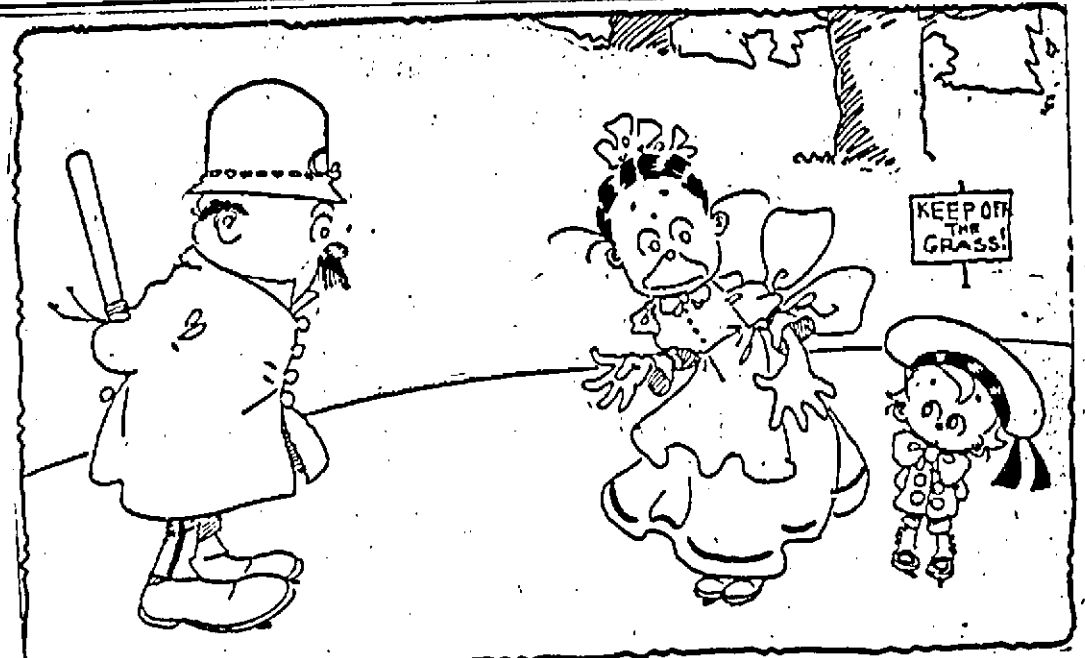

In the middle ages swings were hung by an ingenious pulley device. The rope was passed over a grooved wheel that was fastened to the ceiling by a bracket. The one who was swinging was not only pushed from behind by one of his fellows, but was also helped from the front by striking with his foot the outstretched foot of another comrade. This sport was a favorite pastime of pages.

Not Yet.

But not even to swim with Shelley in a sea of glory, or to sit with Keats, crowned, on a cloud, would we undertake that journey—Atlanta Constitution.

A REASON AND A RESULT

It's a common thing to hear the Dental traveling men come into Dr. Richards' office and find him as busy as a man could be.

Says, "Well, Richards, I've been around to all the other dental offices today, and you are the only man I have found who is doing anything."

People are keeping him busy because he is doing.

Painless work at a reasonable price. There are a few people who rather pay $10.00 for gold crowns because possibly they think they are getting better value thereby.

But the fact remains that Dr. Richards is putting out hundreds of gold crowns at exactly $5.00 each.

Which are identical in every respect.

Workmanship, quality of gold, etc., etc.

The only difference is in the amount of hot air the different dentists pump into you.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM WATERY GRAVE

Three Girls Nearly Met Death in the Rock River This Noon Shortly Before One.

Alta and Gertrude Maine and Mary Whalen, employed at the Thoroughbred box factory, had a narrow escape from drowning this noon shortly before one o'clock and but for the prompt work of the fire department, who responded to the call for aid, would have doubtless met a sad fate. The girls took a boat used by the employees of the Janesville Rug Company and paddled out into the stream. Caught by the current the boat was swept down the stream and but for the fact that the girls caught the planks of the Milwaukee street bridge they would doubtless have been upset. The cries of the three girls were heard by pedestrians and an alarm sent in to the fire station. At the same time a boat belonging to T. P. Kelly started for the scene. Driver Barriage of the fire patrol and Assistant Chief Con Murphy were first to reach the scene and the prompt work in dragging Miss Whalen to the gas and water pipe runway under the bridge relieved the tension on the boat so it kept afloat until the boat reached them and the other two girls were rescued. The affair happened at an hour when many were on the streets and attracted considerable attention.

"FLEEKs"

Mysterious murder may be solved by woman through print. Mrs. Margaret Grippen, the victim at top and Mrs. M. E. Holland, finger print expert who may bring murderer to gallows through finger print similar to one shown.

Winnebago, Ill.—A mysterious murder, which might have baffled even Sherlock Holmes, may be solved by Mrs. M. E. Holland, if she succeeds. It will require the examining of finger prints of every man and woman in Winnebago and may lead to a general change in the entire police system of apprehending criminals over the United States.

The murder occurred last week and was the most mysterious and brutal in the history of the state. Mrs. Margaret Grippen, cousin of General Low Wallace, author of "Don Hur," lived alone in a modest home here, 230 W. 12th street.

As Mrs. Grippen is not known to have had many enemies and as not a penny's worth of property, stolen and no one could have benefited by her death, all that remains upon which detectives may work is the finger print in blood made on a lamp chimney by the murderer just before his escape from the house.

Satisfied that the murder can only be solved by means of the impression on the blood stained chimney, Mrs. M. E. Holland, one of the best known finger print experts in the country, has been called to Winnebago by Sheriff Collier to compare the prints of every one of the 1,000 inhabitants of the village. This work will be commenced tomorrow and should it prove fruitful, a very known acquaintance of Mrs. Grippen, whether the resident of her home town or of some other city, will be compelled to submit to the test.

This action was decided upon when it was learned that for the past 25 years Mrs. Grippen apparently had lived in fear of her life and that after 2:30 every night she exercised great caution in allowing visitors to enter her home, questioning them as to who they were and before unbarring the door peering from a front window in order to be positive of the identification.

Whether or not Mrs. Grippen's practice of barricading the doors and windows before 2 o'clock every night was really on account of her fear of bodily violence or simply on account of a cautious nature owing to the many years she had lived alone has not been determined for a certainty.

Mrs. Holland left Chicago for Winnebago yesterday afternoon, taking with her photographic copies of the finger print taken by Edward Evans, the finger print expert of the Chicago police department.

Mr. Evans spent the forenoon with Mrs. Holland, comparing the thousands of prints held by the bureau of identification, in hopes that one of these fingerprints might be similar to the murderer's. Evans furnished Mrs. Holland all the information he had secured during the three days he spent in Winnebago, and both he and the woman declared they were convinced the murder was committed by a person living here who was in the confidence of Mrs. Grippen. Whether this person is a man or woman, neither detective will say, on account of this finger prints of women are well as men will be taken by Mrs. Holland.

The finger print on the lamp chimney was made in the blood of the victim. This print is of a left index finger. After photographs were taken of it by Expert Evans, bacteriologists made an examination and found that in this sample and in that of blood taken from the dead woman's body there were the same number of white corpuscles, practically proving that the imprint was made after the woman had been stabbed, and that her assailant had covered his hands with her blood.

The imprint made by the murderer is about one inch long and half an inch wide. Under the Scotland Yard classification it is a "radial loop imprint." The lines running around the crest of the finger tip are plainly marked, and the experts declare they will have no difficulty in proving similarity if the finger marks of the right man are secured.

So careful are Mayor Emmett Cross and Sheriff Collier to prevent the escape of the murderer if he is still in Winnebago that every resident when he leaves town is questioned as to where he is going and the time of his expected return. With few exceptions the residents are accepting this practical martial law with but little complaint.

"The murder was one of the most brutal, horrible and inexplicable with which I have ever come in contact," said Expert Evans. "There is only one way to tell who the murderer is, and that is through the finger print on the lamp chimney."

"Are finger prints a positive identification?" Evans was asked. "They are more complete, more certain than ballistics measurements," he replied. "In England, Scotland yard has impressions taken from the hands of 1,000,000 persons, and there are cases where bloodstained bodies of women have been identified when no other means are possible. A murder cannot occur in a residence without the criminal leaving some mark of his finger upon a dusty chair, a glass or even the person who was killed. These can easily be photographed and then we have a mark of identification more positive and certain than if the murderer wrote a name upon the wall."

"I compared the print on the chimney with that of the murdered woman, and as they are of two different classes it is practically certain that it is that of the murderer."

"If they would only get one test case before a jury it would only be a short time before the finger print system of identification would be adopted in the United States as it has been in England, France and other European countries," said Mrs. Holland. "While I know little about the case as yet, I believe this murder will result in giving us an opportunity to demonstrate that the finger print system is an absolute necessity in all police work. In many murders if they would call in experts sooner much crime could be checked. European police officials think it is a disgrace that the way American criminals escape."

"The case is more of a puzzle than ever," said Mayor Cross last night. "We believe Mrs. Grippen was killed by some resident of the town, but who the murderer can be we have not the slightest suspicion. We are attempting to trace the history of the woman from her birth in order to learn if there is anything which might lead to the solving of the mystery."

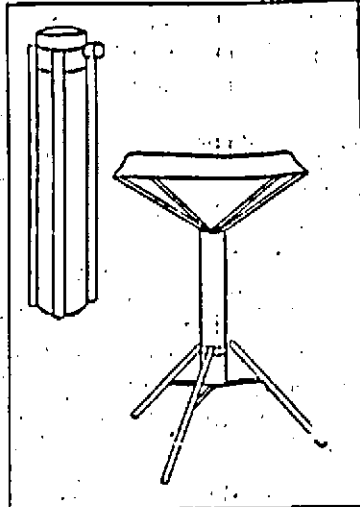

Lighthouses Destroyed Birds.

After two recent nights of fog, only three birds were found dead for the lighthouse of Cape Girardeau, Missouri, says the London Chronicle. They had been attracted by the light and were killed by flying into the lighthouse.

CHAIR SLIPS INTO POCKET

When Folded It Is Not Much Bigger Than a Fountain Pen.

A chair which folds into a shape not much larger than a fountain pen has just been designed as a bit of automobile accessory, but it will be also found useful for many other purposes and occasions. It is often desirable to crowd an extra passenger or two into an automobile when the path being traversed is hard and level, and so the chair shown in the accompanying cut was designed. When not in use it is collapsed and can be stowed away in a corner where it is entirely out of the way, or if desired it may be carried in the pocket. When called into active service its strength is assured by reason of the fact that it is made of metal.

It is adjustable to heights of 14, 16 and 18 inches, has a swivel top, heavy canvas seat 12 inches square, is made of malleable iron and steel with nickel-plated and black enamel finish and weighs complete less than two pounds. When folded it measures only three inches in length by two inches in diameter and can be easily carried in the pocket. It is built to sustain a weight of 300 pounds and its compact form makes it especially serviceable for use in motor boats, camping excursions, sketching, etc.

BREAKFAST SENSE.

Overloaded Stomachs Make Poor Workmen.

Health is a state of normal, spiritual, mental and physical function. It is a definite physical symptom, the chemical equilibrium of the blood and organic secretions.

This is the assertion of authority. With the stomach over-loaded with food, that is hard to digest and gases, the head aches, the nerves are shattered, bowels disordered, and all health regains supreme.

Can one be pleasant, industrious, capable in such condition? The remedy is simple—wholesome food, open air, exercise and right thinking. Often the right kind of breakfast means an splendid day's work with head and heart and hand.

A bad breakfast means a day of nasty temper and mental results. Start the day right with P-C Corn Flakes or Koko-O-Dee Wheat Flakes served with good milk or cream. Always served with good crisp and delicious. If you have already eaten them—your mind is already clouded—order today and you'll not regret it.

Remember it is only the famous P-C or Koko-O-Dee Wheat Flakes so delicious and healthful.

A REMARKABLE ECZEMA CURE.

No More Hopeless Cases of This Dreaded Disease.

Eczema has long been one of the most dreaded of diseases, not only from the suffering and humiliation it entails, but also because of the difficulty hitherto found in curing it. Doctors have failed, and the desperate patients have resorted to much advertised "so called" remedies, only to meet with disappointment. Now all this is changed.

A safe and speedy cure for eczema—absolutely unailing, as thousands are ready to testify—has at last been found. Dr. Taylor's Eczema Remedy has established itself solely on its merits as an infallible blood purifier and skin cleanser. Its use has enormously increased within a brief period, as its efficacy has been learned.

For not alone is this remedy effective in the worst cases of eczema, but it is probably the quickest and surest remover of all skin blemishes, such as pimples, black heads, acne, herpes, rash, barber itch, etc., that has ever been discovered. Often one application, over night, clears the complexion.

A free descriptive booklet is issued by the Dr. Taylor Remedy Co., Philadelphia, and the remedy and booklet can be obtained at The Smith Drug Co., and at all first-class druggists.

IMPROVED LEMON SQUEEZER

Several Interesting Innovations Made in a Household Implement.

A glass squeezer for the purpose of extracting the juice from a lemon is heretofore called a lemon squeezer, whereas it is not a squeezer in any sense of the word, but in order to be clearly understood we are compelled to adopt the common practice and to call the device a "squeezer." This article operates by cutting the pulp of the lemon away and re-leaving its juice in this manner, and as it performs its mission in a very more satisfactory than anything which has preceded it, the innovation was a welcome one. In its familiar form it was lacking in some respects, and these shortcomings have been remedied in a recent invention, shown in the accompanying cut. In its new form the "squeezer" is supplied with a cup, which will catch the juice from several lemons, and when sufficient is poured into the proper receptacle through a convenient lip. The device is also supplied with a handle for convenient handling.

Novel Lifeboat.

The Providence (R. I.) police department has added to its equipment a lifeboat fitted with wheels and runners, so that, winter and summer, it can be taken from the police station where it is housed, hitched to the rear of a patrol wagon and quickly drawn to a place of launching. At a pond boat, carriage and all, can be launched and the wheels dropped when the craft is well in the water. Police officials are delighted with their old barge and commend the type to all inland cities where boats are scarce and hard to get in an emergency.

STATE GATHERING
MAY BE INVITED TO COME TO CITY
Next Year's State Convention of the Eagle May Be Asked to Come to Janesville.
At the meeting of the Janesville Aerie No. 724 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles last evening, the question of inviting the next session of the state convention to meet in Janesville in the summer of 1910 was discussed. Such a gathering would mean the bringing to Janesville of several hundred members of the order from the various Aeries throughout the state and would last three days. Last year the session was held in Superior and this year in Waupun. A committee to discover the sentiments of the business men of the city relative to such an invitation being issued was appointed to report at a future meeting of the Aerie.
P. M. Marzuff, E. B. Connors, J. J.
Cunningham, Fred J. Schmidt and Hugh M. Joyce, Jr., being the committee named. An invitation with all the solemnities of England was also held which was followed by a sumptuous banquet served in the rooms of the Spanish-American War Veterans adjoining the Eagle hall under the direction of Chief Monroe Arnfield. The delegates from the local Aerie, J. C.
Nichols, J. J. Cunningham, E. B.
Connors, Hugh M. Joyce, Jr., and Fred J. Schmidt.

IN HOT PURSUIT OF AN ELOPING COUPLE
Thomas Bertram Who Lives Near Council Bluffs, Ia., Arrived Here in Search of Daughter.
Last Night.
Thomas Bertram, a Council Bluffs twenty miles south of Janesville, Ia., came to Janesville on the 4:10 C. & N. W. train yesterday afternoon in pursuit of his daughter, Kitty, who was secretly married a week ago Wednesday to a youth named Walter Donahoe, who lived ten miles west of the Bertram farm. The wedding took place at Omaha two days before the bride's eighteenth birthday and the groom had recently reached the majority. It is supposed that the couple passed through Council Bluffs and that some days after their arrival in Chicago they boarded a C. & N. W. train either for Janesville or Milwaukee. The father has no serious objections to the groom but does not believe his daughter was old enough to marry and wants to persuade her to return home and remain there for a few years before taking up the duties of a wife. No trace of the parties could be found here and he went on to the state metropolis.

GOLDEN WEDDING OF MILTON RESIDENTS
Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Green Tendered a Reception in Honor of Event by Their Many Friends.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton, May 21.—On Wednesday occurred the golden wedding anniversary of Hon. P. M. Green and wife and their numerous friends tendered them a reception at Odd Fellows hall.
Twenty-five coming from Abilene.
Ice cream and cake was served. Valuable gifts were presented as mementoes of the occasion and the event was very enjoyable. Both Mr. and Mrs.
Green are in very good health and all present hope to be on hand at their diamond anniversary. Mr. Green is one of the early settlers, coming to Milton in 1840, and until he moved to this village lived on a farm at Rock River. During his long residence here he has served as postmaster, member of the legislature, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, and Superior from the village. At the present time he is president of the board of trustees of Milton college and of the Bank of Milton.
A good program, of large attendance, good fellowship and well-kept make-weather conditions combined to make the sixty-eighth annual meeting of the Abilene convention of Congressional churches and ministers a happy occasion. The program was carried out with excellent completeness. Intellectual, practical and missionary phases of the Christian life, and the life and work of the church were considered. The educational side was represented by Rev. M. J. Fongera of Northland College, Ashland, and Rev.
W. M. Ellis of Endeavor Academy, Endeavor, Wis. Among those who enjoyed the occasion were Mrs. Emily Williams Harding of India, and Mrs. Arthur Smith from China. Dr. C. H. Deane of Milwaukee gave an excellent address, the closing one of the convention, on the "Call of the Church to Men." Rev. A. O. Stevens was the moderator of the convention and Rev.
A. C. Warner of Walworth was the scribe. The next annual meeting will be held at Whitewater. Sixty-nine were in attendance Wednesday from out of town.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON
ABSOLUTE honesty is a rare thing.
The man or woman who reads of the political graffer with blank horror is often a private graffer in his own little way.
How many people do you know who work in an office who do not bring home lead pencils for their home use?
I know just one.
And next to one supplies his family and acquaintances as well as himself. Stationery shares the same fate as pencils.
An I said, I know one person who does not appropriate pencils for private use, but I don't know a single one who doesn't use office stationery for personal correspondence.
I am told, however, that there is one corporation almost everywhere that does not suffer from this latter kind of grift, and that is the bureau of Associated Charities.
It is not so much that the clerks are so much more honest than other clerks. It is that their friends object to having letters bearing that stamp lest people might draw incorrect conclusions from it.
A stamp says two cents so loudly that most people are a little bit more particular about appropriating them, but the step from pencils and paper to stamps is a perilously easy one.
The use of office telephones for private purposes is an especially tempting form of grift.
Of course, in many cases where the telephone service is unlimited, there is no reason why clerks shouldn't take advantage of the privilege, but as a matter of fact they very seldom confine themselves to these circumstances.
The free use of hotel stationery by non-patrons who simply drop in to write a note, is another good example of the petty graffer.
These are but a few of the "petty gruffs" that I think of just now, but doubtless everyone that reads this knows of some similar peculiar "peccadilloes" of his own, or his friends.
No, the moral is not to cease from taking lead pencils and stamps and stationery and using the office telephone. That might not be such a bad idea—not for the sake of your employer, but for your own sake.
But this is a better one—cease blaming the big graffer.
Ask yourself what might have happened if the little graffer had been placed in the same position.

PRODFORALDRICH; TILLMAN'S TALK

SENATE LEADER ACCEPTS AD-VICE AND CRITICISM
FROM TILLMAN.

HE ADMITS HE DESERVES IT

South Carolinian's Complaint That Too Much Time is Spent in Useless Wrangling Agreed to—Hepburn and Nelson Clash.

Washington, May 21.—Think of the great leader of the Republican majority in the senate—Nelson W. Aldrich from the union's smallest state—taking advice from Senator Benjamin Tillman and admitting that the South Carolina statesman's criticisms were deserved.

It really happened and old timers around the capitol had not recovered from their surprise when the senator reconciled today. It all came about when the senate adopted the lead schedule, incidentally giving another victory to Mr. Aldrich's committee on finance.

Before another paragraph could be taken up, Mr. Tillman arose and said he wanted to make a suggestion to the chairman of the committee on finance.

"We have," he said, "just spent the best part of a day in a useless wrangle resulting in the usual victory of a majority of eight or ten votes for the senate manager, in control of this bill.
I want to suggest that he might get a good many more votes if he would enforce the rule which forbids a senator to speak more than twice on the same subject."

Aldrich Accepts Advice.
"I am not sure," said Mr. Aldrich, in reply, "that I do not deserve the suggestion and criticism of the senator from South Carolina. I have been hoping that much of the discussion here which seemed unnecessary would cease."

Mr. Aldrich appealed for relevancy in the discussion in the paragraphs of the bill. "I accept," he said, "the criticism of the senator from South Carolina because I think it is deserved."

Mr. Tillman, being accused by Mr.
Dixon of being the chief offender in speaking many times on the same amendment, protested, and his protest was followed by a statement by Mr.
Aldrich that it was his intention at an early day to satisfy the senator from South Carolina that the tariff bill should be proceeded with "morning, afternoon and night until disposed of."

Fix Duty on Lead.
The lead duty fixed by the committee was originally 2 1/2 cents per pound, but Mr. Curtis, who is a member of the committee, today suggested a reduction of one-eighth of a cent a pound, bringing the figure down to 2 1/8 cents, and Chairman Aldrich accepted the reduction.

When the vote was taken the committee obtained its usual triumph, the figures standing 41 to 32 in favor of the Curtis amendment. As usual, Senators Beveridge, Bristow, Brown, Burkett, Clapp, Cummins, Dooliver, Gamble, La Follette and Nelson voted with the "Democrats." Senator Borah voted with the Republicans.

Says Trusts Are Ghosts.
"The trusts are ghosts," declared Senator Heyburn in replying to suggestions that the "lead trust" was interested in the duty on lead.

Senator Nelson taunted Senator Heyburn on the former attitude of his state on the silver question.

"I never followed the silver god out of the Republican party," replied Senator Heyburn.

"You are following a lead god now," retorted Senator Nelson amid general laughter.

Senator Bristow declared that the lead industry was a trust and "every year exacts $1,000,000 from the American people, for which it gives them nothing in return."

WOMAN BATTLES FEMALE THIEF.

Wife of New York Millionaire Catches Burglar and Holds Her.

New York, May 21.—After a desperate struggle in the front hallway, Mrs.
James G. McLaughlin, wife of a multimillionaire of 27 Fifth avenue, captured a woman burglar as she was leaving the house with hundreds of dollars' worth of loot.

While leaving the place the thief dropped a dish. This aroused Mrs.
McLaughlin, who rushed upon the thief.

The woman, bit, scratched, pulled hair and struggled desperately. Mrs.
McLaughlin held fast until the butler arrived.

Miss Taft to Unveil Monument.

Washington, May 21.—Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the president, has accepted an invitation to unveil the tysburg campaign. The ceremony

Taft.

Jumps from High Bridge.

New York, May 21.—Albert House, 25 years old, jumped from the Williamsburg bridge, a distance of 153 feet, into the East river, and escaped practically unscathed. He was arranged in court because of his jump and was held in $500 bail to keep the

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Kirkwood made no answer. Clau-ding, Stryker went on deck.

In the course of an hour the American followed him. The Alton was within the wide jaws of the western Scheldt. Kirkwood approached the captain, who, acting as his own pilot, was standing by the wheel and barking sharp orders to the helmsman.

"Have you a Bradshaw on board?" asked the young man.

"Steady!" This to the man at the wheel; then to Kirkwood, "We're that way!"

Kirkwood repeated his question.
Stryker eyed him suspiciously for a moment.

"What do you want it for?"

"I want to see when I can get a boat back to England."

"Hullo! Yes, you'll find a Bradshaw in the port locker, near the forward bulkhead. Run along now and get it, and mind you don't go tearing out the pygmy to myke pyper buttons to go yip' in."

Kirkwood went below, found the designated locker and, opening it, saw first to his hand the familiar bulky red volume.

The strap removed, the book opened easily, as if by force of habit, at the precise table he had wished to consult.
Some previous client had left a marker between the pages—and not an ordinary bookmark by any manner of means. Kirkwood gave utterance to a little gasp of amazement and instinctively glanced up at the companion-way as if he were observed.

He was not, but for safety's sake he moved farther back into the cabin and out of the range of vision of any one on deck—a precaution which was almost immediately justified by the clumping of heavy feet upon the steps as Stryker descended in pursuit of the ever essential drink.

"Find it?" he demanded, staring blindly with eyes not yet focused to the change from light to gloom at the young man, who was sitting with the guide open on his knees, a tightly clenched fist resting on the transom at either side of him.

In reply he received a monosyllabic affirmative. Kirkwood did not look up.
"You must be a howl," commented the captain, making for the seductive locker.

"A howl, sendin' that fine print there in the dark. Why don't you go over to the light? I'll 'ave to 'ave them shutters t'aken off the windows."

"I'm all right," Kirkwood went on studying the book.

Stryker swigged off his rum and wiped his lips with the back of a red paw, bestowing a moment to watch his guest.

"Myra! It seems more 'ome-like for you, I expect," he observed.

"What do you mean?"

"Why, Bradshaw's first cousin to a hainnamack, ain't it? Can't get one, can't get one."

"I'm just wonderin' 'ow they feed you in them asylums."

Unquestionably the handkerchief was hers. If proof other than the assurance of his heart were requisite he had it in the initial delicately embroiled in one corner—a D. for Dorothy!

Quivering with excitement, he bent again over the book and studied it intently. After all, he had not been wrong! He could assert now, without fear of refutation, that Stryker had lied.

With every second, then, he was traveling further from her to whose advice he had rushed, impelled by motives so hot headed, so innately ely-trical, so unthinkingly gallant, so exceptionally idiotic!

"What else could I do?" he defended himself against the indictment of common sense. "I couldn't leave her to the mercies of that set of rogues. And heaven knows I was given every reason to believe she would be aboard this ship! Why, she herself told me that she was sailing!"

Heaven knew, too, that this folly of his had cost him a pretty penny, first and last. His watch was gone beyond recovery, his homeward passage forfeited. He no longer harbored illusions as to the steamship company pre-sentsing him with another berth in lieu of that called for by that water soaked slip of paper then in his pocket—courtesy of Stryker. He had sold for a pittance, a tithe of its value, his personal jewelry and had spent every penny he could call his own. With the money Stryker was to give him he would be able to get back to London and his third rate hostelry, but not with enough over to pay that one week's room rent, or—

"Oh, the devil!" he groaned, head in hands.

The future loomed wrapped in un-speaking darkness, lighted by no leuray of hope. It had been bad enough to lose a comfortable living through a sneaky conviction of nature, but to think that he had lost all else through his own egregious folly, to find himself reduced to the kennels!

Stryker, emerging from his room for breakfast, found the passenger with a hostile look in his eye and a jaw-set in ugly fashion. His eyes, too, were the abiding place of smoldering devils, and the captain, recognizing them, con-siderately forbore to stir them up with any untimely pleasantries. To be sure, he was autocrat on his own ship, and Kirkwood's standing aboard was all, but then there was just enough yellow in the complexion of Stryker's soul to incline him to sidestep trouble whenever feasible. And, besides, he entertained dark, suspicious of his guest—suspicious he scarce dared voluntarily to his inmost heart.

The morning meal, therefore, passed off in constrained silence. The captain ate voraciously and vociferously, publicly back his chair and went on deck to relieve the mate. The latter, a stunted little cockney with a wizened countenance and a mind as foul as his tongue, got small change of his attempts to engage the passenger in conversation on topics that he considered fit for discussion. After the sixth or eighth snubbing he rose in dudgeon, discharged a poisonous bit of incoherence and retired to his berth, leaving Kirkwood to finish his breakfast in peace.

CHAPTER XVIII.

TO the tune of a moderating wind the morning wearied away.
Kirkwood went on deck once for distraction from the intelarable monotony of it all, got a sound drone of spray and was glad to dodge below and dry himself.

He had the pleasure of the mate's company at dinner, the captain remaining on deck until Hobbs had finished and gone up to relieve him, and by that time Kirkwood was through.
Stryker blew down with a bluster show of cheer. "Well, well, my little man!" (It happened that he topped Kirkwood's stature by at least five inches.) "En'joyin' yer sea trip?"
